

Viking young bull daughter wins the Holstein show at Agromek

Viking left a fine stamp on the Holstein show at Agromek where the Holstein Champion was a third lactation young bull daughter from Lars Nissen, Grindsted. The Irish judge Tom Kelly characterized the cow as a perfect aged cow that can stand milking in modern free-stall barns for many lactations.

The reserve champion was a cow from Tiris Holstein, Kellerup. The cow is after the German sire Manager. The judge enhanced the cow's noble charisma and superb mammary.

This 3rd lactation cow after the young bull DH 131A (R Capri x T Funkis) from Lars Nissen, Grindsted, was Holstein Champion. The young bull's dam is Sloth Armanda Funkis from Kr. Sloth, Lemvig.
